1. What happens in an internet-minute? One thing that becomes crystal clear in this post is that “tech” is definitely here to stay and it will continue to expand at an ever increasing pace. How many text messages are sent or “Google” searches conducted each minute? More than I could imagine.
2. Double or nothing? This post from the same author as above (Visual Capitalist) made another great story here with the change in population from 1500 forward. This is a moving graph that will take only a couple of minutes and is quite enlightening.
3. While we are on the graphic thing this week, take a look at this video for an easy to understand version of the “sins of investing” at least according to the authors. These folks are from Ritholtz Wealth Management and each come with a unique set of experiences. They are worthy of a listen.
